Q.2 [A] Write a narrative paragraph on your experience of the first day in the college.

It was my first day in the college. I went to the college with my friend pooja. There were only a few boys and girls in the verandah. At 7-45 the warning-bell rang. I went to the class-room. Some other boys and girls also entered the class. At 7-50, a middle-aged man came in. All students stood up in respect for him. He started speaking in English. He introduced the syllabus of Compulsory English. After the first lecture was over, there came a young lady-teacher. She gave her dull speech in Marathi. All students got bored. After that I came out

Q.8 [B] Write a paragraph about a very good or a very bad day in your life

I still remember that day. It was the month of May. The year was 1990. I was reading in 9th standard. My examination was over. So I was going to my friend's village. I was walking alone. I came near a small hill. I was very tired. So I sat down under a tree. It sat in front of me and gave me a slap on my face. It snatched my banana and ran away. I began to shout loudly. Nobody came to help me. I took my bag and began to run fast. I never looked behind. then I reached my friend's village. I told this incident to my friend. He began to laugh. It was a terrible thing. The we took our meals and went to see the temple in his village. I cannot forget this day in my life. Sa

Q. The central idea of the poem 'A village girl'

A. The poem is 'A village girl'. A village girl of information.

The poem 'A village girl' is written by Mohan Singh. It is a Punjabi poem. It is translated into English by Balwant Gargi. This poem describes a village girl. There is a bundle of grass on her head. Her hips move like pitchers. Her eyes are beautiful. She is tall and slim. She is like a sugar cane. Her footprints are shining. The poet could not see her face because she was covered with grass. The poet had to cross the river. She thanks the poet for supporting her. The poet could not forget her touch.
